Read this story about how little Arjun learns to keep his things in place.

Arjun jumped out of bed. He was very excited.

Mother, today is my drawing competition.

His mother smiled.

Yes, Arjun. You are very good in drawing. I am sure you will make a beautiful picture. But first, please pack your bag.

competition - test

Arjun could hardly wait to go. He ran to his room. It was in a mess. His clothes were thrown around. His books were spread here and there on the table. His pencil box was empty. He could not find anything.

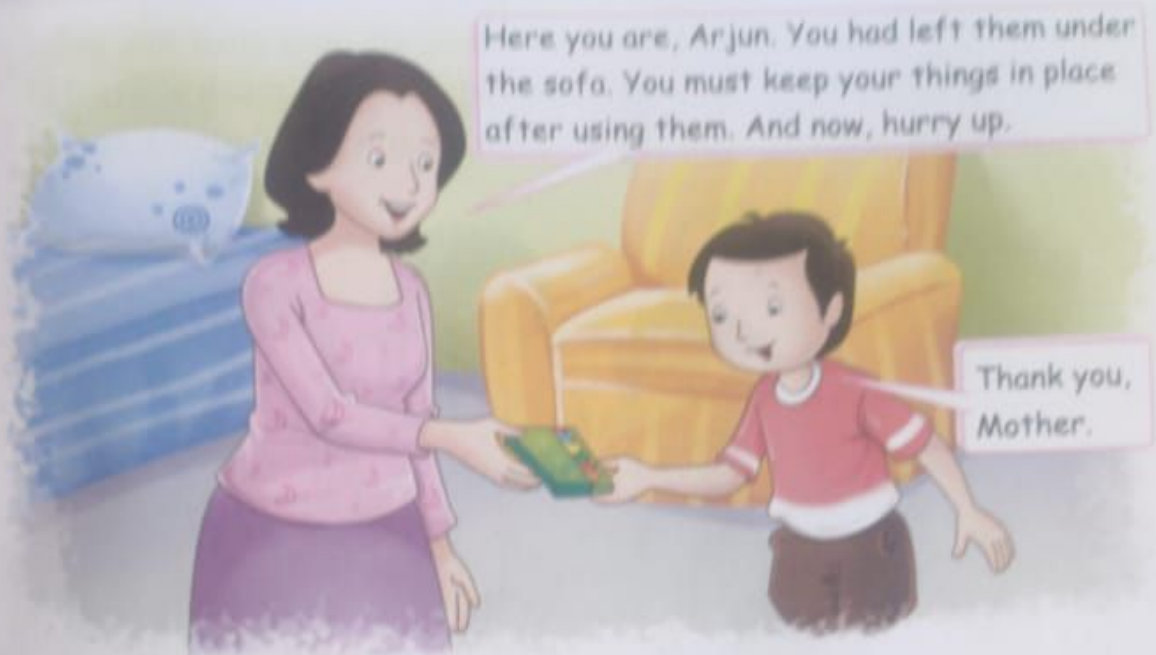

He called out to his mother.

Mother, I can't find my pencil and eraser. And where are my crayons?

Arjun's mother began to look for his things. She looked for them under the bed, in the cupboard and in the drawers. Finally, she found the box of crayons under the sofa.

Here you are, Arjun. You had left them under the sofa. You must keep your things in place after using them. And now, hurry up.

Thank you, Mother.

Arjun quickly put everything in his bag and hurried along. The competition had already started when Arjun reached the hall. The incharge called Arjun.

You are late, little boy. Go and take your seat.

I am sorry for being late.
